Loves pomegranate tea, NYC, the sound of heartbeats and boot heels on pavement. Creator of art about the human condition and the experience of being alive, and curator of Maek Gallery—a showplace of contemporary art that makes you think, makes you feel, makes you question the things you value in life and why. Challenging minds to reevaluate, and inspiring eyes to feel the world in a whole new way.

Loves speeding up, the sound of sidewalk cafes, and taking the long way home. Innovative design translates the traditional hunched over cycling position into an upright and forward pedaling ride—creating efficiency, torque and comfort. Eliminating tension in the back and shoulders, and opening up the view of the road. It's called Flat Foot Technology®, but you won't want to stop long enough to let your feet chill flat on the ground even though you know you can.
